VI. ANALYSIS

a. LEGAL STANDARD

For each Allegation COPA must make one of the following findings:

1. Sustained - where it is determined the allegation is supported by a preponderance of the evidence;
2. Not Sustained - where it is determined there is insufficient evidence to prove the allegations by a preponderance of the evidence;
3. Unfounded - where it is determined by clear and convincing evidence that an allegation is false or not factual; or
4. Exonerated - where it is determined by clear and convincing evidence that the conduct described in the allegation occurred, but it is lawful and proper.

A preponderance of evidence can be described as evidence indicating that it is more likely than not that the conduct occurred and violated Department policy. See Avery v. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., 216 Ill. 2d 100, 191 (2005), (a proposition is proved by a preponderance of the evidence when it has found to be more probably true than not). If the evidence gathered in an investigation establishes that it is more likely that the misconduct occurred, even if by a narrow margin, then the preponderance of the evidence standard is met.

Clear and convincing evidence is a higher standard than a preponderance of the evidence but lower than the "beyond-a-reasonable doubt" standard required to convict a person of a criminal offense. See e.g., People v. Coan, 2016 IL App (2d) 151036 (2016). Clear and Convincing can be defined as a "degree of proof, which, considering all the evidence in the case, produces the firm and abiding belief that it is highly probable that the proposition . . . is true." Id. at ¶ 28.

b. COPA finds that these allegations are Unfounded.

The Chicago Police Department delineates criteria for its members to conduct an investigatory stop.<sup>29</sup> Specifically, for investigatory stops, CPD members must possess reasonable articulable suspicion based upon specific and articulable facts which, combined with rational inferences from these facts, reasonably warrant a belief that the suspect is committing, is about to commit, or has committed a criminal offense. When Officers [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] approached [REDACTED] they were attempting to conduct an investigatory stop. This is evidenced by the ISR completed relative to this incident. Per the ISR, the officers observed multiple males loitering in and around the street and also smelled the strong odor of burnt cannabis. This amounted to reasonable articulable suspicion that a crime had been committed, and thus permitted the officers to conduct a stop for purposes of investigation.

As the officers approached said individuals, [REDACTED] rode away on his bicycle while the other males fled on foot. Officer [REDACTED] pursued the males that fled on foot, and did not pursue [REDACTED]. COPA finds that both allegations against him are unfounded as there is clear and convincing evidence that provides a firm belief that he was not in the vicinity of [REDACTED] after he fled.

Officer [REDACTED] pursued [REDACTED]. It is undisputed that [REDACTED] fell from his bicycle while fleeing from him. COPA did not uncover any evidence to suggest that any officer other than Officer [REDACTED] namely "Officer [REDACTED] was present after [REDACTED] fell. COPA finds that [REDACTED] statement that "Officer [REDACTED] battered him could not have happened. This statement, and [REDACTED] continued insistence that "Officer [REDACTED] battered him, calls [REDACTED] credibility into question. COPA finds that clear and convincing evidence exists therefore that Officer [REDACTED] did not batter [REDACTED]. Thus, the allegations against Officer [REDACTED] are unfounded. Moreover, COPA cannot rule out that the injuries sustained by [REDACTED] came from his fall.
